Flooring Trend in 2015

Exotic Woods

The current hardwood flooring trend in the Indianapolis area is exotic woods. While traditional grains will always be a great choice, exotic choices are becoming more popular every day!

Not only do exotic woods stand the test of time, but they also bring a unique atmosphere to every home. If you're looking for distinction and originality, look no further than our selection of unique woods:

- Acacia
- Tigerwood
- African Mahogany
- Jatoba
- And many others

Authenticity is Key

The Floor Craft Sanding team has over 50 years of combined hardwood flooring experience that we put to use in every project, and we are Bona®-certified craftsmen. We take pride in doing great work for our neighbors and community, which is why we strive to focus on service, quality, and environmental responsibility.

We are passionate about our work, and it always shows in our final products.

Bamboo

Looking to “go green”? This popular choice is an environmentally friendly option for Indianapolis homeowners because bamboo is an easily renewed resource: natural vegetation.

Durability is also a key factor, as your bamboo floors will stand the tests of time while providing a gorgeous appearance.

Strong and elegant? Sounds like a good choice to us.

Cork

Cork

Another environmentally friendly flooring option, cork is a highly renewable resource that produces nearly no waste. As a matter of fact, cork floors are often made as a byproduct during production of bottle corks.

Besides natural sustainability, cork floors are durable and comfortable. Cork acts as a soft cushion, creating less impact when walking. Indentions from furniture will also disappear over time.

Do any of these hardwood flooring trends inspire you to give your hardwood floors a fresh start in 2015?

We would love to help make your dream home a reality. Give us a call today at 317-759-2575 to schedule a consultation.
